

Such ads as this make me very discouraged about the democratic process. It's another example of special interest groups, who by definition have no reason to be objective, using great sums of money which pervert the process of educating American citizens about their government.